(1) When a new reporting requirement need is identified by a Combat Center activity, the requesting activity will coordinate with responding activities to determine the most efficient means of providing the information. This will include staffing for review of the proposed directive containing the reporting requirement. Estimates of the reporting burden can be gathered during this process.

(2) Once the reporting need has been coordinated, the requesting activity will prepare and submit to the Reports Manager a NAVMC 11216 and NAVMC 11217, to request approval for the information collection. The NAVMC 11217 is used to compute burden hours for block 19 of the NAVMC 11216. If the information is collected by a form, the package will also include a draft of the form and the DD Form 67 to request approval of the form.

(a) Instructions for the forms are located on the second page of both NAVMC forms, as well as the DD Form 67.

(b) Combat Center commands and directives can be substituted for references to Marine Corps commands and directives in the NAVMC 11216 and 11217. These instructions apply to locally created reports.

(c) Reference (e) provides information and guidance for forms management and the preparation of the DD Form 67.

(d) Reference (b) provides guidance to determine whether a reporting requirement will require an RCS or will be listed as exempt.

(3) If the reporting requirement involves collection of information from members of the public, call the Adjutant's office at 830-4189 for assistance. Public information collections must be licensed by the Office of Management and Budget, not the local command.

(4) Once the report and form, if any, are finalized and approved by the reports and forms manager, the sponsoring activity will be notified and the form (or instructions for obtaining the form) will be posted to the Naval Forms Online website. The requiring directive will be published (if new) or changed/revised (if existing) to include the new reporting requirement.
