STORY BY LANCE CPL. MARGARET GALE

Marine Wing Support Detachment 31, which is based out of Marine Corps Air Station Beaufort, S.C., supported Integrated Training Exercise 1-18 through the reconstruction of three helicopter landing zones at training area Lead Mountain, Nov. 1-13, 2017.

The reconstruction of the landing zones allows for sufficient support of rotary operating wings aboard the Combat Center which, in turn, allows the wing to conduct the training necessary to remain an effective fighting force.

MWSD-31 was assigned to rebuild the landing zones in place of a Marine Wing Support Squadron. This means that the detachment was expected to provide the same level of quality and proficiency with a lack of personnel. This manpower deficiency provided the detachment with a unique set of challenges during the rebuilding.

“We successfully prepared for this exercise with the amount of heavy equipment operators and equipment we need to complete the mission,” said Staff Sgt. Jorge Gonzales, heavy equipment operator chief, MWSD-31. “Being understaffed presented challenges coordinating with support and we had to pull from our internal resources but overall the Marines worked very hard and met the timeline set forth for completion of the landing pads.”

The landing zones are designed to last for a short period of time, resulting in reconstruction every six months to a year. The process consists of surveying the land to determine its natural layout and slope, a route

Base Observes Corps' 183rd Birthday

Three separate cake-cutting ceremonies held here last Saturday marked the Base's observance of the Marine Corps' 183 years as the nation's "Force-in-Readiness."

The Base Commanding General, Brigadier General R. M. Victory, accompanied by

Mrs. Victory and his staff honored the three separate affairs by cutting the traditional first piece of the Birthday Cake.

A sergeants and below ball held at the Base Theater featured Orin Tucker and his orchestra. Over 400 young ladies from outlying communities and Women Marines from Camp Pendleton were invited guests at the enlisted men's ball.

The Staff NCO ball featured Anne Hayes and her 10 girl orchestra as entertainment during that affair. Added attractions were COCO Te, a calypso dancer and Wilbur Hall and Rene, a comedy team.

At COM, the "Tenor Tones," a combo made up from Base Band members provided the evening's entertainment.

The Commanding General extended anniversary greetings and delivered special "Birthday Messages" at each of the three separate celebrations.

According to the Planning Committees of the celebrating activities Marine Corps' Birthday observances on the Base have been declared as a tremendous success.

WHAT I'VE LEARNED

Wesley TURNER

Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Marine Corps Air Ground task force training command gunner

TURNER HAS BEEN IN THE MARINE CORPS SINCE MARCH OF 1990. DURING HIS TIME IN THE CORPS, HE HAS BEEN FORWARD DEPLOYED EIGHT TIMES.

>Growing up, times were much different than now. Everything felt a bit freer. I wasn't a troublemaker by any means, but my friends and I would run the countryside. I grew up close to the Susquehanna River, which was nice too.

>I raced motocross when I was younger. The football coach always wanted me to join the team, but I never did and I was fine with that.

>I have a brother and three sisters. One of my sisters lives in Pennsylvania, two live in Wisconsin and my brother passed away when I was 45. Most of my family is originally from the Midwest.

>My great uncle on my mom's side was a Marine, a machine-gunner during World War I. His son was in the Air Force in Vietnam. There were a couple others on that side of the family who joined the military but as far as my dad's side of the family, I'm the only one.

>My dad had a federal firearms license and was a legal gun dealer, so I started shooting when I was around five years old. I always had an interest in weapons, so it was a natural progression for me to go down to the Marine recruiter when I was 17. I brought the papers home, my dad signed them and I was good to go. The recruiter never had to come and convince my parents.

>I went to boot camp in March of 1990. When I think back on what I was doing back then, it almost seems like a dream. It's been many years, and names and faces have faded away.

>I have a sort of selective forgetfulness. Not a lot bothers me anymore, which is good, but I have to sit and think about things for a bit to remember old stories and things like that.

>A time that really stands out is when I was in 3rd Battalion, 2nd Marines from 1995 to 1999. It was the right people at the right place at the right time; a great unit and a couple great deployments. It was a very defining time for me because it was my second enlistment and my platoon commander at the time was a great leader.

>Another time that stands out was more recently is when I was a Regimental Gunner at 5th Marines from 2011 to 2014. That was another great time, and again it was great because of the people at that place and time. I had good bosses and great coworkers, everybody had a great attitude and everybody really cared. It always comes back to the Marines you work with who make your time worthwhile.

>You learn from the good people and you learn from the bad. You can learn how you want to be from the good people.

>I remember a long time ago, I was in a rifle platoon on Lima-5 in [Camp Lejeune, N.C.] and we were conducting squad attacks. I was just a rifleman at the time. There was a staff sergeant there who was talking to the fire team leader about making decisions and what he needed to do to be successful. It wasn't a long and drawn out talk either, he just said "you've got to do this, this and this and you got to go! You've got to be aggressive! Observe, orientate, decide and act!"

>To me that was a very defining moment. You have to look around, look at what's going on, make a decision and you have to go. That's how you have to be. It's funny how small things that you observe from good leaders will make you realize what it is you want to do and what you want to be a part of.

>You can learn from bad people as well. You can see what you don't like about them and make sure that you don't do things their way when you get to that level.

It's important to pick from both the good and the bad experiences and try to define who you are as a person, as a Marine and as a leader.

>You're always learning, no matter what level you're at. I'm still learning at this level, working for general officers. I'm constantly learning, because there is always somebody who knows more than me. Even when you retire, you'll still be learning.

>The advice that I have in order to be successful is simple. You have to care about what you're doing, and you have to be focused on what you want to accomplish. You have to know in your mind where it is you want to go and how you're going to get there. You have to be serious, but you can't take yourself too seriously.

>The Marine Corps is a tough life and it's got to be something that you want to do. If you want to do it, you'll be successful. Think about what you're doing before you do it; think about what you're going to say before you say it. There is a time and a place for everything; you just have to use common sense to decide what time you can do or say certain things.

>The whole point of this job, regardless of what your specialty, is to help us win. It is all about winning. A lot of people focus on survivability, but it's important to learn things in order to win because a byproduct of winning is surviving. Tactics, techniques and procedures make you a winner. If you do the right things, surviving, safety and all those other things are a byproduct.

>If I could go back to the moment I stepped on those yellow footprints, I'd tell myself to enjoy it more. Like I said, I have selective forgetfulness. I never took enough pictures and never talked to enough people. So that would be it, enjoy it more.

1st MAW participates in exercise Blue Chromite 2018

STORY AND PHOTOS BY
CPL. JESSICA ETHERIDGE

Marines with 1st Marine Aircraft Wing participated in the joint field training exercise Blue Chromite 2018, throughout the prefecture of Okinawa, Japan, Oct. 23 – Nov. 3.

BC18 is a U.S.-only mission rehearsal which strengthens the Navy-Marine Corps expeditionary, amphibious rapid-response capabilities required to swiftly and effectively respond to a regional crisis or contingency across the Indo-Asia-Pacific region.

“Blue Chromite presents a really exceptional training opportunity for Marines. It gives them the opportunity to exercise the entire MAGTF (Marine Air Ground Task Force) concept, where we can get members working together from the ground and air combat elements as well as the specific unit headquarters to plan together and train together,” said Maj. Scott R. Wood, the current operations officer for BC18. “So eventually if we need to, we can fight together effectively.”

BC18 is a decisive demonstration of the range and strength of the Navy-Marine Corps capabilities. It is not a question of if but when those capabilities will be called upon in response to crises or disaster in the region.

“We exercised command and control for the Marine Aircraft Group headquarters, to facilitate training with 4th Marine Regiment, Victor 1/3 and 3rd Reconnaissance Battalion, with aerial support,” Wood said.

Throughout the exercise they conducted many essential tasks such as establishment of forward arming and refueling point, air delivery ground refuel, air assaults, ground threat reaction training, close air support, tactical recovery of aircraft and personnel and carrier qualifications for all flying squadrons.

The Navy-Marine Corps team remains forward and ready through our shared commitment to employ the full range of military capabilities. Not only do we share common values and tactics, we face common threats requiring our combined resolve.

“We always need to be ready to fight, it’s briefed constantly, like are we ready ... what are you doing right now that’s making you ready to fight tonight,” Wood said. “Conducting this exercise and having the squadrons working together is going to make everyone a more effective fighting force when we are called upon.”

Federally insured by NCUA. <sup>1</sup>Offer valid for cardholders issued new Navy Federal More Rewards American Express® Card accounts opened by 12/31/2017. To be eligible for the 25,000 points, you must make $3,000 or more in net purchases with the card within 90 days of account opening. Please allow up to eight weeks after the 90-day period for the 25,000 points to post to your rewards balance. Account must be open and not in default at the time the 25,000 points are issued in order to be posted to your rewards balance. Limit of one promotional offer per account. Offer valid for accounts opened from 10/6/17 to 12/31/17. <sup>2</sup>More Rewards Cards earn 3 points for every $1 of net purchases made at supermarkets and gas stations, 2 points for every $1 of net purchases made at restaurants, and 1 point for every $1 of other net purchases. A More Rewards Card supermarket, gas station or restaurant purchase may only earn 1 point per dollar spent, depending on the merchant code used to process the transaction. Restaurants located within another establishment (e.g., hotel, casino, commissary, grocery store, event venue) may be ineligible, in which case you will receive 1 point per dollar spent at these locations. In addition, superstores, supermarkets and warehouse clubs that sell gasoline are not considered gas stations, so you will earn 1 point per dollar spent at these locations. Rewards are earned on eligible net purchases. "Net purchases" means the sum of your eligible purchase transactions minus returns and refunds. Eligible purchase transactions do not include, and rewards are not earned for, the following transactions: cash advances, convenience checks, balance transfers, or fees of any kind, including finance charges, late fees, returned check fees, ATM cash advance fees, and annual fees, if any. Navy Federal cash equivalent transactions, such as the purchase, loading or re-loading of Navy Federal gift and prepaid cards (e.g., Navy Federal gift cards, Visa® Buxx Cards, GO Prepaid Cards), are also not eligible purchase transactions and do not earn rewards. <sup>3</sup>Currently, rates range from 10.65% APR to 18% APR, are based on creditworthiness, and will vary with the market based on the U.S. Prime Rate. ATM cash advance fees: None if performed at a Navy Federal branch or ATM. Otherwise, $0.50 per domestic transaction or $1.00 per overseas transaction. The Navy Federal More Rewards American Express® Card is issued and administered by Navy Federal Credit Union. American Express is a federally registered service mark of American Express and is used by the issuer pursuant to a license. © 2017 Navy Federal NCUA 13660-A (9-17) reconnaissance and an engineer reconnaissance. After drafting all of the information, the operator chief is able to relay the knowledge to the equipment operators so they can begin the labor. With the repeated updates of the HLZs, opportunities to conduct training readiness events are provided frequently.

“I find this project to be very beneficial to our unit,” said Cpl. Elmer Araiza, heavy equipment operator, MWSD-31. “The dirt gear is like a language, so being able to come participate in this project allows us to hone our skills.”

According to Gonzales, the reconstruction of the landing zones is not only important to the unit, but to the Marine Corps and the public. It provides a real life scenario to better train Marines in the event of a deployment, rendering them unfailingly ready to answer the Nation’s call.

Celebrating 242 years of America's force in readiness

STORY BY CPL. MEDINA AYALA-LO

The Marine Corps was born on November 10, 1775 in Tun Tavern, a small Philadelphia pub. On that day, the Continental Marines were established with the intended purpose of being able to fight for independence on land and at sea. Over the years the Marine Corps has evolved into a force capable of defending its people and providing humanitarian aid to the nation and its allies from air, land and sea, all while maintaining itself as a force in readiness.

"Being a Marine is something I take pride in, and that is instilled in us from day one," said Sgt. Maj. Abel Leal, former Headquarters Battalion Sergeant Major. "We are warfighters and the way we operate is very unlike the other branches. I'd like to think every Marine has some of our values instilled in them."

Since the Marine Corps' inception it has been known as the nation's force in readiness. Marines are recognized by the way they train, the customs they uphold, and the morals that are instilled in them. Although the organization continues to grow, many of the customs have remained the same. The Marine Corps' birthday is one of the many traditions that Marines take great pride in celebrating annually.

"The ball is a tradition that we celebrate every year," Leal said. "I bring a family member to the birthday ball because they don't understand it in the same way [Marines] do. But when they see all the ceremonial events in it; the moment of silence for our fallen brothers, the reading of Gen. John A. Lejeune's birthday message and the passing of the cake from the oldest Marine to the youngest, they get to share in the pride that we feel."

Although tradition is something Marines hold dear, there was a time when the birthday wasn't always widely celebrated. In 1921, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune declared November 10, an official Marine Corps holiday. Since then, whether it was a small celebration between fellow comrades while deployed or a grand affair while in garrison, Marines have taken the time to honor the Corps' illustrious history.

"I love the Marine Corps Birthday," said Sgt. Maj. Ray Wilburn (ret.), veteran of World War II, Korea and Vietnam. "It doesn't matter where you are or how many Marines you're with. Two Marines can celebrate it with a cup of water while deployed and it will still have the same meaning."

The Marine Corps Ball has been regarded as a time-honored tradition that celebrates the birth of the Corps. It is a night that provides Marines from all generations with a chance to come together, recognize the sacrifices made by those who came before

SGT. OLIVIA ORTIZ

"It's nice to celebrate the birthday in fancy venues, but we shouldn't get wrapped up in that," Leal said. "We should focus on celebrating our birthday for the heritage and tradition that comes with it."

The birthday is a day that does more than celebrate a beginning. For Marines it signifies much more. The birthday stands for a day when those from all generations, who swore an oath to protect and serve, can join as one to share in the pride of being a United States Marine.

CPL. AARON PATTERSON

Marines with Bravo Battery, 3rd Battalion, 11th Marine Regiment, fire the M777 Lightweight 155mm howitzer during Integrated Training Exercise 2-17, aboard the Combat Center, Feb. 11. ITX is a combined-arms exercise which gives all elements of the Marine Air Ground Task Force an opportunity to utilize capabilities during large scale missions to become a more ready fighting force. 3/11 is currently participating as part of the ground combat element for this exercise.

LANCE CPL. TOJYEA MATALLY

Marines with the 26th Marine Expeditionary Unit help stock food for the community at a local Salvation Army as part of relief efforts for victims of Hurricane Maria in Fajardo, Puerto Rico, Oct. 3. The 26th MEU, along with local authorities and other Department of Defense services, is supporting the lead federal agency, Federal Emergency Management Agency, in providing humanitarian aid efforts for Puerto Rico.

CPL. CHRISTIAN VARNEY

Marines with the U.S. Marine Corps Silent Drill Platoon perform during a sunset parade at the Marine Corps War Memorial, Arlington, Va., June 6. Sunset parades are held as a means of honoring senior officials, distinguished citizens and supporters of the Marine Corps.

CPL. BENJAMIN McDONALD

Aircraft Rescue and Fire Fighting conducted a controlled burn training exercise aboard Marine Corps Air Station Beaufort, Oct. 20. The live fire gave experienced Marines training they need to stay proficient and gave the new Marines a chance to train with a live fire. The training simulates extinguishing a jet fire.

Federal Impact Aid Survey

Parents, did you return your child's survey card? Be counted.

An Overview for Federally Connected Parents

- ★ Federal Impact Aid is a law that provides a way for the federal government to reimburse local school districts for the loss of property and business tax support associated with federally connected students residing on/off base in the county.
- ★ The funding that your child's school receives in Impact Aid directly impacts his or her education by providing replacement funding for operating expenses such as materials, equipment, staff, special education programming, and building improvements as part of the general funding of the district.

What can I do?

It's simple: Each year your child receives the Federal Survey Card form that requests confidential information regarding his/her federal connection (including military dependents). Simply by thoroughly completing and promptly returning this brief survey, you contribute to your child's school funding!

- ★ Incomplete cards cannot be submitted for Impact Aid; thereby creating a loss of funding for the district.
- ★ Information provided is protected under Privacy Laws.

To complain of discrimination, call HUD toll-free at 1-800-424-8500. EMPLOYMENT ADVERTISING POLICY This newspaper does not knowingly accept employment ads that indicate an age preference, from employers covered by the Age Discrimination Act, or knowingly accept ads representing a preference of sex, where no bona fide occupational qualification exists under the Fair Employment Act from employers covered by that act. Nor, do we in any way condone employment that discriminates on a basis of race, religion, ancestry or national origin. For further information regarding occupational qualifications and employers covered, contact the Fair Employment Practice Commission. NOTICE TO READERS California law requires that contractors taking jobs that total $500 or more (labor or materials) must be licensed by the Contractors State License Board. State law also requires that contractors include their license number on all advertising. You can check the status of your licensed contractor at www.cslb.ca.gov or by calling 800-321-C5LB. Unlicensed contractors taking jobs that total less than $500 must state in their advertisements that they are not licensed by the Contractors State License Board. SERVICES OFFERED POLICY This newspaper does not accept responsibility for services offered, by any advertiser, using this newspaper. Please carefully evaluate any services advertised, and do not use those services unless you have checked the references, and know and understand all terms of agreement and conditions between you and the advertiser. California State law requires that contractors, builders, and landscapers who perform work for $500 or more, including materials and labor, must be licensed. License numbers should be so indicated in their advertising. Family child care providers are required by state law to be licensed, and facility license numbers must be indicated in all advertising. Unlicensed contractors should also be indicated in their advertising. Please refer questions to Contractors State License Board, 1250 East Cooley Drive, Suite 200, Colton, CA 92324 GENERAL POLICY Please check your ad the first day it runs to see that all the information is correct. This will ensure your ad is exactly what you want readers to see. Call us the very first day your ad appears to make any changes or corrections. This way, we can credit you for the first day if any error occurred. The Publisher wants to do everything possible within the confines of good taste and legal constraints to help you advertise your products or services to your best advantage. The newspaper does reserve the right to edit or reject any copy or illustration.

Subaru salutes your service.

Subaru supports you on and off the road with the Subaru Military Incentive Program, a vehicle discount program for active-duty military personnel. Ask your retailer about saving $1,300–$3,300 off the Manufacturer’s Suggested Retail Price (MSRP)*, depending on model and accessories.

Subaru is a registered trademark. Vehicle shown with available accessories. *MSRP does not include tax, title, and registration fees. Limited time offer subject to change without notice. Valid in the U.S. only, except Hawaii. Terms and conditions apply. Prior sales excluded. Certain models may be excluded. May not be combined with all Subaru incentives. Contact your local participating Subaru retailer or VIP Program Headquarters at vip.program@subaru.com or 1-800-VIP-0933 for further assistance.

Legal Disclaimer: “Purchase or lease any new (previously untitled) Subaru and receive a complimentary factory scheduled maintenance plan for 2 years or 24,000 miles (whichever comes first.) See Subaru Added Security Maintenance Plan for intervals, coverages and limitations. Customer must take delivery before 12-31-2017 and reside within the promotional area. At participating dealers only. See dealer for program details and eligibility.”
