Marathon Targets participated in individual training exercises aboard Marine Corps Air Ground Combat Center Twentynine Palms, Calif., March 1, 2018. Marathon Targets created a robotic device that simulates enemies in foreign countries to help enhance the training environment for pre-deployment Marines.

Marathon targets are robots that have the capability to move freely across any training environment. They are developed to execute complex pre-planned scenarios. According to Alex Dlugosch, field service engineer, Marathon Targets, these robots benefit the Marine Corps because they help simulate a realistic battlefield by challenging Marines to always be on the look out.

"When using static targets, communication doesn't seem as crucial during the training exercise," said Dlugosch. "During training with the robotic targets, communication is one of the things that greatly improves."

The robots are programed with a GPS system, sensors and microphones in the head and chest to indicate when shot. When a target recognizes that it has been shot, it

1st MarDiv arrives for DesFex; Desert Operation set March 17

A force of approximately 3,000 men of the 1st Marine Division arrived here today to begin individual desert training in preparation for Operation DesFex which will take place March 17 through 19.

The troops will be billeted at Camp Wilson until the 23rd of March when they will depart for Camp Pendleton.

The major training objective of the force, dubbed Regimental Landing Team 5, will be to exercise an infantry regiment in planning, training and conducting offensive and defensive operations in a desert area.

On March 2, the advance party, consisting of "B" Company, 3rd Amtracs and 1st Tanks arrived at the Bagdad railhead and unloaded, from the flatcars 50 amphibian tractors which will be used during the maneuvers. During the past week they have been making preparations for the arrival of the main force that arrived by convoy today.

Their stay here should be quite an experience for the visiting Leathernecks as their ability to adapt themselves to a new environment will be given a severe test. With the 5th Marine Regiment providing the bulk of RLT-5, the Division troopers will have to overcome the problems of heat, water and the perennial desert problem of the shifting, whispering sands.

WHAT I'VE LEARNED

Bruce

Englewood, CA Private First Class, administrative clerk, IPAC, Headquarters Battalion

COLLINS

&gt; Growing up my home was very broken.

I was born in Englewood, Calif., addicted to meth. My mom was a meth addict and my father passed away when I was two years old. The courts took away my mom's custody rights and gave them to my great-grandma. Once she passed away, the rights were passed to my grandma.

> I lived with my grandparents until I was seven. Then, my mom sobered up and I was presented with the choice to live with her. I took it because I never had the chance to live with her up until that point.

> At the time, she was living in Jacksonville, Miss., with a girlfriend. My mom spent most of her time arguing with her partner and relapsed. I only lived with her for about a year until my grandma picked us up and moved us back to California. I moved into a one bedroom duplex in Downey, Calif., with my aunt, uncle, mom and cousins. There were a total of seven people living in a small apartment.

> Once I reached fourth grade, I was in and out of trouble. I was involved in my first school fight and didn't stay in one household for more than a couple of months. My mother moved to New York to live with her dad as she tried to get her life together and I moved with her. But, it wasn't long before we were on a train ride back to California. It was around this time she met a man named Todd who she fell in love with.

> After a few months of my mother and Todd knowing each other, we all moved to South Dakota. For the first month of living there I fell behind in school. I just didn't want to go and I was never really disciplined for not going either. I watched a lot happen between my mom and Todd, but I was so young that I didn't fully understand what was happening with her. Before I knew it, she had relapsed again and was severely mentally unstable. We hopped on another train and came back to California.

> Fifth grade rolled around and I was back to living with my grandma in Montebello, Calif., and was attending a private school but that didn't last very long. I was an angry child, I was throwing books and temper tantrums on the regular before I got kicked out and put in a public school.

> It was only a few months until my mom entered my life once again and I went to live with her and her newest boyfriend, Tim, in a two bedroom home with my mom's best friend and her two kids in Downey.

> As I grew older, I started to realize the life I had been living wasn't normal for a child my age. I didn't know what it was like to have structure in my life. My mom was able to stay sober while Tim had another relapse, up until she had a miscarriage. It was then that I understood what my mom was going through but I was too nervous to confront her.

> In eighth grade my mom was arrested and was about to be charged with a life sentence in jail. Meanwhile, my little brother was born and going up for adoption and Tim was in jail. I went to move back with my aunt in Bakersfield, Calif. I never enjoyed living with my aunt and uncle because they always talked poorly about my grandparents, so staying with them was short lived.

> Everyone in my family thought I was a lost cause except for my grandparents, so I moved back in with them. We then moved to Desert Hot Springs, Calif., during my freshman year of high school. I thought my life was going to change for the better and that I was going to be in a good neighborhood. Instead, I ended up living in a town just as bad as last the one I was living in before. By this time, I had finally found structure in my life.

> Throughout high school, I became interested in acting. One of my uncles opened a theater company in Los Angeles. I had never acted a day in my life but I auditioned for a high school play and received the lead role. I turned out to have a natural talent and picked up paid gigs outside of school as well. I also gained an interest in martial arts, graffiti and slam poetry. I started doing everything I could.

> Around the same time, my mother regained custody of my younger brother and me as she moved into the trailer park that my grandparents managed. At this point she had been sober since my freshman year.

> My mom is now a big part of my life and is on a path to success. She has been able to stay sober and is marrying a man who is a great role model for my brother.

> My senior year of high school, I decided to drop algebra and join ROTC. My interest in the military stemmed from my uncle, who was prior Navy, and my grandpa, who served in the Army. Both of them were successful men that once had a rough life, but were able to make the right choices and turn their lives around for the better.

> I joined the Marine Corps right after high school graduation. The Marine Corps is known to be the best branch and I wanted to be a part of the best. I also wanted to show my brother that no matter where you come from, there is a path to success.

> Throughout my enlistment, I have been stationed in Okinawa, Japan, and Twentynine Palms, Calif., all while studying to become a commercial truck driver.

> When I get out of the Marines, I want to attend school for business. I'd like to use that degree to start an organization that will help youths receive grants for college and give back to my community. This is a goal of mine because I can connect with children in these situations on a personal level. Growing up, I had a lot of friends who were raised like I was but never saw a way out of the negative lifestyle. There are a lot of children who don't see the positive opportunities and get sucked into the streets.

> My biggest role model is my grandfather. Even though he is not related to me by blood, he is the closest thing I have to a father. He taught me how to throw a ball, shave and overall be the man I am today. My grandpa worked three jobs to be able to provide for his family, while simultaneously dedicating his life to a child who most people saw as a lost cause. He was very patient with me and taught me that a man's job is to provide at all costs. I didn't understand what he meant at first because I thought being a man was going to jail and walking the yard. He showed me that way of living was stupid.

> A quote I live by is, "life is like keys. The more keys you have, the more doors you can open." Keys are things you can learn that ultimately present you with more options for your life. I want to be a jack of all trades, not just a master of one.

Managing Animals/Pests

Animal and/or pest control begins with good housekeeping. While maintaining your facilities operational status and cleanliness, look for signs of pest activity such as staining from urine, fecal droppings and unpleasant smells.

Pests of all types are looking for food, water and harborage. Preventing pest activity begins with securing your facility. Look for openings, holes in screens or walls, gaps on doors or other damage allowing pest access. Normal operations within a facility, such as moving equipment and personnel, are enough to deter pests from entering open doors. NEVER attempt to capture animals that enter your facility. These activities could result in a bite and will require medical assistance. For example, and specifically, if a bat contacts your skin you MUST seek medical assistance.

Marines celebrate RAA with children

STORY AND PHOTOS BY CPL. FRANCISCO BRITORAMIREZ

JOSHUA TREE, Calif.— Eager children of all ages circled around Marines with Marksmanship Training Unit as they read some of their favorite stories written by famous author, Dr. Seuss at Friendly Hills Elementary School, March 2, 2018 in support of Read Across America week.

“I’m excited, I know [the children] are excited. It’s always great to have the community involved, and it’s nice for them to see the Marines in a positive environment,” said Deanna Skinta, principal, Friendly Hills Elementary School.

Read Across America is an annual reading motivation and awareness program that calls for every child in every community to celebrate reading on March 2 which also happens to be Dr. Seuss’ birthday. To celebrate, the school invited Marines from the base to come out and share some of their favorite Dr. Seuss books with the children.

Seven Marines participated in the school’s celebration of RAA. They were each given two classes to spend 30 minutes reading to kids of ages five to 12.

“The kids love it because [the Marines are] heroes to them,” said Terri Kaiser, faculty member, Friendly Hills Elementary School. “It’s just fun for everyone because the Marines are our heroes and the children get the opportunity to interact with them in small groups.”

Gunnery Sgt. Jared R Wright, Marine Training Unit staff non-commissioned officer in charge, Marine Training Unit, and daughter, Su'Myah K. Wright answer questions of of Friendly Hills Elementary School at Friendly Hills Elementary School, in support of Read Across America.

Sgt. Seth Laird, Range Safety Officer, Marine Training Unit, converses with students of Friendly Hills Elementary School at Friendly Hills Elementary School in support of Read Across America.

Lance Cpl. Derek Wright, block non-commissioned officer, Marine Training Unit, reads book aloud to students of Friendly Hills Elementary School at Friendly Hills Elementary School, in support of Read Across America.

Cpl. Ryan Britton, radio technician, Headquarters and Service Battalion, 1st Tank Battalion, reads book to students of Friendly Hills Elementary School at Friendly Hills Elementary School, in support of Read Across America.

POLICIES FOR HI-DESERT PUBLISHING CO. CLASSIFIEDS

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY
All real estate advertising in this newspaper is subject to the Federal Fair Housing Act of 1968 as amended, which makes it illegal to advertise "any preference, limitation or discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status, or national origin, or an intention to make any such preference, limitation or discrimination."

This newspaper will not knowingly accept any advertisement for real estate which is in violation of the law. Our readers are hereby informed that all dwellings advertised in this newspaper are available on an equal opportunity basis. To complain of discrimination, call HUD toll-free at 1-800-424-8590.

EMPLOYMENT ADVERTISING POLICY
This newspaper does not knowingly accept employment ads that indicate an age preference, from employers covered by the Age Discrimination Act, or knowingly accept ads expressing a preference of sex, where no bona fide occupational qualification exists under the Fair Employment Act from employers covered by that act. Nor, do we in any way condone employment that discriminates on a basis of race, religion, ancestry or national origin. For further information regarding occupational qualifications and employers covered, contact the Fair Employment Practice Commission.

NOTICE TO READERS
California law requires that contractors taking jobs that total $500 or more (labor or materials) must be licensed by the Contractors State License Board. State law also requires that contractors include their license number on all advertising. You can check the status of your licensed contractor at www.cslb.ca.gov or by calling 800-321-CSLB. Unlicensed contractors taking jobs that total less than $500 must state in their advertisements that they are not licensed by the Contractors State License Board.

SERVICES OFFERED POLICY
This newspaper does not accept responsibility for services offered, by any advertiser, using this newspaper. Please carefully evaluate any services advertised, and do not use that service unless you have checked the references, and know and understand all terms of agreement and conditions between you and the advertiser.

California State law requires that contractors, builders, and landscapers who perform work for $500 or more, including materials and labor, must be licensed. License numbers should be so indicated in their advertising.

Family child care providers are required by state law to be licensed, and facility license numbers must be indicated in all advertising. Unlicensed contractors should also be indicated in their advertising.

Please refer questions to Contractors State License Board, 1250 East Cooley Drive, Suite 200, Colton, CA 92324

GENERAL POLICY
Please check your ad the first day it runs to see that all the information is correct. This will ensure your ad is exactly what you want readers to see. Call us the very first day your ad appears to make any changes or corrections. This way, we can credit you for the first day if any error occurred. The Publisher wants to do everything possible within the confines of good taste and legal constraints to help you advertise your products or services to your best advantage. The newspaper does reserve the right to edit or reject any copy or illustration.
